SPEAKER FLAYS MODERN DIVORCE

Dr. C. P. Swift Also Decries Commercialized Sunday In Masterful Address.

SHOWS ALARMING FIGURES

Sixty Nine And Seven Tenths Per Cent of Criminals in United States Comes From Broken Homes.

Divorce was flayed and Sunday amusements were arraigned in a masterful address by Dr. C. P. Swift to a small audience at Christ Lutheran church on Friday evening. Dr. Swift, one-time State representative from Beaver county and floor leader in the Legislature, spoke under the auspices of the National Reformed Association. His subject was "Pillars and Perils of Democracy."

During the first twenty years of the twentieth century, there were 1,883,591 divorces in 3,030 counties in the United States, Dr. Swift declared. "This large number of broken homes," the speaker continued, "left 1,318,000 children under ten years of age without home ties."

An alarming figure was then presented by the speaker when he stated that 69.7 per cent of all the criminals in the United States today come from the children of broken homes. "The hope of this great land of ours lies in the home," Dr. Swift went on, "and every one of us should add our voice to those who fight against this awful menace to society and the world."

Dr. Swift then pointed to France where modern methods of divorce are slowly eating away the foundation of that land. "If France fights no more wars within the next fifty years, she will have passed out as a great nation, because last year alone, she had 3,000 less births than deaths." Uniform marriage and divorce laws were strongly urged by Dr. Swift for France and the United States.

The speaker decried the modern tendency of the open Sunday for business and pleasure. He said the National Reform Association was at work both at Washington and Harrisburg, at the former place to repeal the law which gives all business places in the National Capital the right to do business, and at the latter to fight against the passage of a bill which would legalize business in Pennsylvania on Sunday.

Dr. Swift also took a fling at bootleggers when he said "bootlegging would pass out of existence within a week, if 'We, the People,'—quoting the opening words of the Constitution—(Continued on Second Page)

TRAVELLING MUSICIANS

Revival of Troubadours Seen On Gettysburg Streets.

Evidence of a revival of the old-time travelling musicians was seen in Gettysburg today with the appearance in the hotels, restaurants and other public places of two guitar players.

Joseph W. Leathers, of Washington, D. C., and George Luli, of Honolulu, the latter a "real-honest-to-goodness" Hawaiian, regaled many inopportune audiences with haunting melodies both of the South Seas and of Broadway. They appeared in a recital in Littlestown Friday night.

ARCHITECT MAKES SURVEY

Robert A. Stair, Jr., York architect, made a preliminary survey of the Warner Hospital grounds on Friday for the purpose of preparing plans for a nurses' home. Tentative plans call for the erection of a building with architecture similar to the present structure and which would be connected to the hospital by a passageway.

A TRIBUTE TO FIREMEN

As an old legend says, a dispute arose as to the day St. Patrick was born, some said March 8 and some March 9 and the date was finally fixed by combining the two figures, so Gettysburg is combining the usual festivities which mark March 17 with a celebration in honor of the volunteer fireman of Adams county.

Ostensibly the parade and demonstration today is for the purpose of officially installing a new and modern fire fighting apparatus by the Gettysburg Fire Company, but actually these events are a public manifestation by the town of its appreciation to these firemen, who by their untiring efforts and sacrifices have installed here fire fighting equipment unequalled elsewhere in efficiency in towns of a similar size.

True, the funds which paid for the new engine were largely subscribed by individuals, but no matter how efficient fire fighting apparatus may be, if it is not manned by courageous and loyal firemen, it is worthless. It is not vain boasting to say the efficient organization and splendid moral that exists in the Gettysburg Fire Company is on a par with the standard of efficiency represented in the new fire engine.

Gettysburg, therefore, today is doubly protected against fire losses. Here are a group of men who have given many hours of their time during the last week, without remuneration, for the necessary tests of the engine, and who stand ready at the sound of the gong anytime to rush to the protection of property threatened with destruction.

Their reward is the joy of serving others.

What has been said of Gettysburg firemen applies just as truly to firemen in the various county towns, who are guests here today.

The presence of great throngs of people here is itself a tribute to these firemen and the work they have volunteered to do. But they deserve that and more—a spoken word of appreciation.

YORK ORCHESTRA WELL RECEIVED

Large Audience at Concert For Benefit of M. E. Church Building Fund.

With an estimated attendance of 250 persons, the St. Paul's United Evangelical orchestra, of York, appeared in a concert at the Methodist Episcopal Church in Gettysburg Friday night. The concert was given for the benefit of the building fund for the new M. E. Church, construction of which is expected to start this year.

The orchestra is one of the leading musical organizations of York, and their program was well received by the audience, many numbers being encored. Following the concert, the orchestra as a body was entertained to dinner at Rogers' restaurant, Chambersburg street.

More than $100 was cleared by the program committee, and will be turned over to the building fund committee. The program was as follows:

Adoration, flower song; Bohemian Girl, selection; violin solo, Minuet in G, by Guy Johnson; The Heavens are Telling, from The Creation; tenor solos, by Ralph S. Garrett; Silly Night; Marche aux Flambeaux; Tres Jolie; cello solos, Cavatina, Gavotte in D; Reverie, A Robin's Farewell; trombone solo, Love's Old Sweet Song, by Claire Grass; Il Trovatore, selection, concluding with the Fearless march.

LARGE CROWD SEES START OF PROGRAM

Boyd and LaFrance Engines Make Record Runs And Connections.

While several hundred persons looked on, the first part of this afternoon's program for the formal reception and installation of the new American-LaFrance fire engine by the Gettysburg Fire Company, was staged in Center Square at 2 o'clock.

Visiting firemen in large numbers, bandsmen, county visitors and residents of Gettysburg sought vantage points around and near the Square, during the competitive test between the Boyd pumper and the LaFrance triple combination engine, which began at 2 o'clock. The test lasted nearly half an hour.

Both engines left the fire engine house on East Middle street at the same time and record runs were made to their respective plugs. The Boyd took its station at the plug in front of the City Hotel on Chambersburg street, while the LaFrance drew water from the plug in front of the Plaza restaurant on Center Square.

Firemen on the LaFrance had a stream of water about 100 feet high in less than one minute after leaving the engine house, thereby establishing an enviable reputation for their speed and teamwork. The crew on the Boyd, however, had to cover more ground to get to its plug, but nevertheless they had a stream, equal to the LaFrance's, within less than three minutes after leaving the engine house. D. C. Stallsmith and Percy Miller were in charge of the LaFrance crew, while Walter Sterner and H. E. Smiley were in command of the Boyd.

AID FOR SCHOOLS TO BE UNCHANGED

Fifty Per Cent Under Edmonds Act Applies Under New Proposed Plan.

VALUATION PER TEACHER

Many Districts Will Receive Less Under New Plan, While Others Will Be Severely Cut.

If the new and equitable plan of State aid in paying school teachers, suggested by the Governor to the Legislature a short time ago, goes into effect, Gettysburg will still receive the same amount from the State to help pay its teachers. The present basis of payment is for the State to furnish one half of the amount that Gettysburg pays out in salaries for the teachers, or $12,873 per year.

According to the plan of the Edmonds act, by which state aid has been received, fourth class districts, (5,000 population, or less) received 50 per cent of the teachers' salaries from the State.

The new plan would base the amount of State aid on the valuation of property in the district, divided by the number of teachers employed. A new basis, called the valuation per teacher, is then provided, and the payments are made, accordingly.

Gettysburg, with an assessed school valuation of $1,683,862, is estimated to have a real valuation of approximately double that figure. Since it employs 26 teachers, its valuation per teacher is about $129,528.

Acting on the theory that the small districts were poor, the Edmonds act provided that the state would share in the payment of teachers' salary on the following plan: in fourth class districts, less than 5000 population, 50 per cent of the salary; in third class districts, 5000 to 30,000 population, 35 per cent; in second class districts, 30,000 to 500,000 population, 35 per cent; and in first class districts, 500,000 population and over, 25 per cent.

As an example of how the Edmonds act worked out, Turbotville, a little town in Northumberland county, not far from Williamsport, received 50 per cent of the teachers' salary roll, while Blythe township, Schuylkill county, received the same percentage. Both were fourth class districts and consequently received the same rate. Yet, according to state records, Turbotville had a property valuation of only $30,000 per teacher, while Blythe township (Continued on Third Page)

APPLE GROWING IN STATE RANKS HIGH

Department of Agriculture Bulletin Shows Nearly Nineteen Million Dollar Crop.

Apple production during 1920, to which Adams county was the largest contributor, shows a total production of 20,825,000 bushels, having a total valuation of almost $19,000,000 for the State, according to figures recently completed by the Department of Agriculture. It takes second place for the United States.

Of this total, Adams county produced $22,336 bushels, which were valued at $2,467,998. The number of bushels evaporated was 48,000; the number canned was 277,965, while 59,292 bushels were used for making cider.

The State held third place in total number of apple trees, and was fourth in number of trees bearing fruit.

These and many other interesting facts showing the extent and importance of the apple industry of the State are embodied in a comprehensive survey made during the Summer of 1920.

The report is replete with maps, charts and statistical tables that should prove of great value to the fruit growers of Adams county.

A complete survey of the industries, by regions, together with a description of cultural methods and marketing systems used in each region, are included in the printed report, a limited supply of which is available.

BELATED RETURNS STILL COMING IN Between 800 And 1,000 Persons Filed Income Returns At Local Office.

Belated income tax returns were still being received through the mails by D. G. Bowman, deputy revenue collector, at his room in the Post Office today. Thursday was the last day for filing returns, but many statements came in on Friday and still others were received today.

This was Mr. Bowman's first collection of income taxes at the local office and figures on the number of returns and the amount received last year are not available. This year, however, the deputy collector estimates that between 800 and 1,000 returns were made by individuals, corporations and partnerships. No figures were available on the amount of money paid in as taxes by those who filed returns and were obliged to pay the tax.

Thursday saw a great rush of persons at the local office who put off until the last minute the filing of their income tax statements. Mr. Bowman today said at times there were as many as 25 persons in the office at one time, to ask his advice or make their returns. The collector said he was in the office from 7 in the morning until 12 o'clock at night. On Friday, Mr. Bowman took over 200 income tax returns to the district headquarters' office at York.

Not included in the 800 to 1,000 income tax returns were many certificates of annual inventory, information at source slips and annual information returns which passed through the local office on or a few days before Thursday.

Evidence of prosperity almost nationwide was given in the last income and profit-tax payment to the government, treasury officials declared Friday night, basing their statement on figures which although incomplete support their earlier estimates of receipts of four hundred million dollars between March 1 and 15.

One of the reasons given for the view that business conditions improved throughout last year and are continuing on the upgrade was that although the general level of Federal tax rates has been lowered as compared with the rates upon which last year's payments were based, treasury figures indicate the aggregate amount of taxes collected during the first half of March this year, will far exceed the collections for the same period last year.

M. E. CONFERENCE LAUDS DRY LAWS

Ministers Contend Eighteenth Amendment is One of Greatest Laws Ever Written.

BOYS' CONFERENCE OPENS

Next Year's Sessions of Conference Will Be Held in Pine Street Church, Williamsport.

Thanks to the Governor for his stand on the liquor question in Pennsylvania and to the Senate for passing the Governor's dry bill were extended Friday in resolutions passed by the ministers of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Methodist Church in their fifty-fifth annual session in Grace Church.

The present Eighteenth amendment was characterized by the conference as "one of the finest expressions of the spirit of Jesus Christ. We declare it our seasoned conviction that no amendment to the Constitution has ever been adopted that had behind it such exhaustive investigation, such painstaking study, or carried with it to so great an extent the enlightened judgment of the people. Therefore we regard the flagrant and vicious attempts to nullify the law as treason and worthy of the execration of all good citizens."

Ralph S. Kross, of Sunbury, was Thursday night elected president of the Older Boys' Conference of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Conference of the Methodist Church at the opening supper in Ridge Avenue Methodist Church.

Carl Williams, of Altoona, was elected vice-president; Torence Frymeyer, of Williamsport, secretary, and Haven Frank, of Harrisburg, cheer leader.

STATEMENT OF POSITION

Calls For No Reply, Nor Will Attention of French Government Be Called to Communication.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, March 17.—State Department officials have received a statement of Germany's position in regard to reparations, but they declared today that the information as delivered yesterday by Dr. Bieschoff, counsellor of the German embassy, called for no action by the Washington government looking to amelioration or intervention by it in the reparations dispute between Germany and France.

The information presented by Dr. Bieschoff was characterized as a statement of Germany's position without any request for action by the United States. Officials said they would make no reply nor would they call it to the attention of the French government.

Beyond this brief explanation there was no further comment from Department spokesmen.

In some quarters the belief was expressed that the statement reiterated Germany's willingness to negotiate with France when that government had withdrawn its troops from the Ruhr's occupied regions.

SAY GIRL FOUGHT HER MURDERERS

Rich Man Is Sought In Chloroform Killing And Jewel Robbery.

LOOKING FOR "MARSHALL"

Owner of Tire Business In Several Cities Always Carefully Guarded His Visit To Artists' Model.

New York, March 17.—Reports of medical examiners who performed an autopsy Friday on the body of Miss Dorothy Keenan, artists' model, found dead in her West Fifty-seventh street apartment Thursday with an empty chloroform bottle on the floor, virtually proved the police theory that the young woman was murdered and robbed of her jewels.

A chemical analysis of the brain showed it to be saturated with the anesthetic, and it was also found in the lungs. Medical Examiner Norris said the chloroform had been inhaled. Bruises and scratches were found on the face and neck, indicating the person administering the chloroform had met resistance.

Investigators said they hoped to obtain valuable information from two men, known only as "Marshall" and "Wilson," who had called at the young woman's apartments frequently. Marshall, it is said, is wealthy, with a tire business in New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Wilson is his secretary.

Marshall's visits here were guarded closely, according to the elevator boy in the apartment house and Miss Keenan's maid. They said Wilson, the secretary, always entered first, leaving his master outside in his automobile. When he found the "coast clear," Wilson would signal for Marshall to come in.

Marshall, it was reported to the investigators, was the donor of many expensive gifts to Miss Keenan. The young woman's jewels, valued at $10,000, have not been found. Whether she had them in the apartment or in a safety deposit box the police were unable to learn.

The model's mother, who lives at another address, said her daughter met Marshall some months ago, and that he last visited her Wednesday night. She was certain he had nothing to do with her death.

Other developments Friday turned the police again to consideration of the theory that an international band of parasites is preying on New York women possessing valuable jewels.

In this connection were recalled the Schoelkopf robbery; the theft of several hundred thousand dollars' worth of jewels from Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer, and the murder of Mrs. Elsie Lee Hilair in a hotel in 1917.

DR. GEIBEL APPEARS

The appearance of Dr. Adam Geibel in this neighborhood is attracting much attention from music lovers. The famous blind composer of Philadelphia will give a recital and demonstrations in the lecture room of the Lutheran church, at Abbotstown, at 8 o'clock this evening under the auspices of the public schools of that place. Dr. Geibel who has been sightless since childhood has developed a talent for melody. His recital is said to be a revelation to all who hear and see him. He frequently dictates notes for a theme chosen by the audience to his secretary and then has the air played, showing his facility in composition. Besides a story of his life the recital includes vocal and instrumental selections of his own composition and such interesting demonstrations as naming of objects through sounds on piano and extemporaneous composition without use of instrument.

(By Associated Press) Washington, March 17.—A statement published in Paris and accredited to Secretary Hughes to the effect that the United States desired to obtain the Antilles from France in payment for the French war debt, was received with amusement today by Mr. Hughes, who said he had never made any such suggestion.

It was recalled that a White House spokesman recently announced the government did not desire any territorial properties, and had no intention of acquiring either by purchase or otherwise any foreign possessions adjacent to North or South America.

SAYS OFFICERS DRUNK AT WEDDING

25 Gallons of Whiskey Furnished By Deputy Sheriff, Testifies Bride.

Indianapolis Ind., March. 17.—Government evidence in the trial of 63 Gary and Lake county residents, charged with conspiracy to violate prohibition laws, was directed Friday toward Roswell O. Johnson, Major of Gary since January 1, 1922. Homer Elliott, United States District Attorney, introduced as evidence a list of contributors to a club formed to support Johnson's candidacy for the purpose of showing that many of the contributions came from alleged bootleggers.

Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger admitted the list despite objections from Mayor Johnson's counsel, who contended that the contributions had been made without the Mayor's knowledge or consent.

During the morning Mrs. Gabrielle Lakoich and her mother, Mrs. Louise Nemethy, described the wedding ceremony of Mrs. Lakoich. Twenty five gallons of whiskey were supplied for the celebration by Nick Jurcich, a deputy sheriff and one of the defendants, according to the women. A special table was provided at the wedding, the women testified, for the sheriffs and police, some of whom were in uniform and wearing their badges. When the wedding festivities ended at 4 A. M. her son-in-law and all the officers were intoxicated, Mrs. Nemethy said.

"WEARIN' O' THE GREEN" POPULAR

Young And Old Honor Ireland's Patron Saint On His Birthday.

Ireland's patron saint was honored in Gettysburg today, not only by the Irish and those whose ancestry dates back to the Emerald Isle, but by all whose hearts are in sympathy with the universal homage paid to St. Patrick by all nationalities. The "wearing of a little bit o' green" formed the prominent adornment for both youths and maidens.

The touch of vivid green has been the prevailing note in table decorations for dinner parties and other celebrations which have already been held.

St. Patrick, commonly known as the apostle of Ireland, was a distinguished missionary of the fifth century, who figured largely in the early history of Christian civilization. In his early years he was seized by a band of pirates and sold into slavery in Ireland, where he remained for six years. He made his escape and went to France where he became a monk, later making a pilgrimage to Rome.

He afterward returned to Ireland as a missionary and visited large portions of that kingdom, baptizing great numbers of chieftains and people. He died at a place called Saul, near Downpatrick, and his relics were preserved at Downpatrick down until the period of the Reformation.

The fruits of his labors have been a benefit to all peoples, and it is only right and fitting that his name should be honored, not only by the Irish people, but by all who share in the benefits of the inestimable service he rendered to all of civilization.

A scriptural background was employed by Dr. Swift throughout his talk. He said a democratic form of government in which the will of the people becomes the law of each individual was meant by Jehovah when he gave the Ten Commandments to Moses as the first constitution of a governed people.

The speaker urged the greater and ever-increasing need of religion and the spiritual in government. "Especially in a democracy, where the social order is working out a civic system by the will of the people for the good of all people, is religion essential."

The former legislator was introduced by the Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner, pastor of Christ Lutheran church, who also read a passage of scripture and delivered the invocation.

PROMISE RELIEF TO BUSINESS MEN

French Have Sent Official To Protect Concerns In Ruhr District.

FACILITATE DELIVERIES

Disclaim Intent To Seize Manufactured Metallurgical Products in Occupied Zone.

Washington, March 17.—Ambassador Herrick cabled the State Department Friday that the French Foreign Office had sent one of its officials into the occupied German territory to investigate difficulties between foreign commercial interests and the French and German authorities in obtaining deliveries on shipments.

"The French Foreign Office," Ambassador Herrick reported, "disclaims any intention of seizing manufactured metallurgical products in the Ruhr, but states that the French Government has prohibited the export of such products into unoccupied Germany. The Foreign Office also states that Rhine traffic in transit through occupied Germany is entirely free."

To Facilitate Shipments

In a paraphrased statement made public by the State Department it was added that Mr. Herrick also had been informed by the French Foreign Office that the chief of the Bureau of Commercial Relations of the Foreign Office "has been sent to the occupied regions in order to straighten out and simplify any difficulties experienced by foreign commercial interests in obtaining shipments from occupied Germany."

French Soldier Killed

Duesseldorf, March 17.—One French soldier was killed and three soldiers and three French railroad men were injured when a French troop train was wrecked near Treves in the Rhineland Friday as the result of sabotage.

This was one of several serious cases of sabotage reported by the French from various parts of the occupied territory. The train was derailed from the main line by a switch being thrown and crashed into a freight train.

Another case of violence was the blowing up by dynamite of the railroad bridge over the Kalkum river between Duisburg and Duesseldorf. This was the first instance in which dynamite has been successfully employed for this purpose. The French patrol guarding the bridge was fired upon by the perpetrators but none of its members were injured.

Near Coblenz, three miles of telephone and telegraph cable, which included 14 important military wires, were cut out and destroyed. The French said it would take six months to repair this damage.

SUMMARY OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

Brief Mention of Proposed Legislation Introduced by State Lawmakers.

Amendment to the laws taxing shares of stock of state and national banks and trust companies are proposed in two bills which Auditor General Lewis plans to have introduced next Monday. A third bill would amend the gross receipts tax law.

Under the present law a state or national bank may pay either 10 mills upon the par value of the shares of stock or 4 mills upon the actual value. The amendatory bill would impose a uniform state tax of four mills on all banks, change the taxable year now ending on June 20 to the calendar year ending December 31, abolish all inducements now existing to pay before March 1 and make all taxes payable within sixty days from date of the settlement by the auditor general.

The amendatory bill also would reduce the penalty for failure to make the report or pay the tax to 10 percent of the tax instead of 50 percent.

The third bill would permit a more effective method of collecting the gross receipts tax by clarifying the present law and would make taxicab, automobile bus lines and truck transportation companies, whether conducted as an individual, partnership, association or corporation, amendable to the same tax as other transportation companies. Water power, hydroelectric and other like companies, whether incorporated or unincorporated, without regard as to how they were formed or incorporated, would be made subject to the same gross receipts tax as other companies.

Youth Leads Alabama Sheriff To Swamp Where Body Is Found.

Fayette, Ala., March 17.—County authorities were Friday investigating mysterious circumstances surrounding the finding of the body of an unidentified white man on the farm of a Possey Maddox, who was recently slain by prohibition officers.

A son of Maddox voluntarily appeared before the Fayette county grand jury Thursday and revealed the secret. He said a younger brother had held for many months that the body of a man had been buried on his late father's plantation.

Sheriff Led To Body

This son told the grand jury that his brother, Wiley Maddox, knew the spot where the body could be found. Sheriff Chambliss, accompanied by Maddox to a swamp on the Maddox farm where they found the body.

A pipe, cigarette holder and a drinking cup were the only articles found on the body that might lead to identification, officers stated. Evidently the body had been buried eight or ten months.

Wiley Maddox told the sheriff that his father had killed the man, who was unknown to the youth, several months before the elder Maddox's death. When this lad, a boy in his early teens, revealed to his brother the fact that he knew of the killing, the elder son promptly appeared before the grand jury with the story.

Brothers-In-Law Held

Neither of the Maddox boys are believed by authorities to have been connected with the case. Two brothers-in-law of the elder Maddox, Drew Lane and Andrew Donovan, were arrested and held in jail here for questioning.

This is the second body found on the Maddox farm within the last few years, according to authorities, who announced that they "have reason to believe" that others are hidden there.

HIGHWAYS NEED MUCH REPAIRING

Materials To Be Used Would Fill 113 Solid Freight Trains.

Harrisburg, March 17.—The materials to be used during the 1923 season in the repair work undertaken by the State Highway Department of Pennsylvania will load 113 solid freight trains of 70 to 104 cars each.

The stone the Department will use would build a rock-fence three and a half feet high and 370 miles in length—a wall extending from Philadelphia over the Lincoln Highway to Pittsburgh and thence to a point near Greenville, Mercer county.

The oils, tars and asphalts to be used by the Department would give two coats of paint to a roof large enough to cover the cities of Pittsburgh and Altoona.

The State Highway Department on March 22, 26 and 27 will open bids for stone and for bituminous materials. Bids are asked on 405,328 tons of stone and 6,274,164 gallons of materials for road treatment. The stone will be used in resurfacing and in repairs to macadam highways. Of the bituminous materials, 1,696,112 gallons are for use in the building of penetration-macadam thoroughfares by the Department's maintenance forces; and 4,578,052 gallons for surface treatment.

The huge gallonage of bituminous materials will fill 785 tank cars, or 12 trains of 70 cars each.

Figuring that locomotives of the Pennsylvania railroad's types 1-1-S, L-1-S or H-9-S will haul a maximum summer load of 6,565 flat tons, the stone to be bought by the State Highway Department will make up into 113 trains of 100 cars each. These trains standing together would extend from Harrisburg to within a few miles of Williamsport—87 miles in all.

The winter just ending has been particularly damaging to macadam roads. The repairs necessary will be begun at the earliest date permitted by the weather.

WINTERS JUST AS COLD

Complaints of Old-Timers Exploded By Weather Bureau Report

"The winters are not as cold as they used to be," is a common expression on the part of old-timers in this part of the country. The older inhabitants are also frequently heard to say that the snows are not as deep as in years gone by.

These beliefs are just as common in other parts of the country as they are here, as is attested by the fact that E. L. Mitchell, of the Washington weather bureau, has felt an investigation of weather conditions in other times was worth while.

After studying all available weather records for 100 years back, M. Mitchell says the change in normal temperatures has been too small to be detected by scientists. Accurate records have been kept here fifty years and some in New England go back 100 years. A mild season in one section is offset by a cold one somewhere else. The average temperatures over the whole country and over the full period show no general shifts despite the weather philosophers who say the earth is getting warmer or colder, and that in a trillion years it will be red-hot or ice cold.

had a valuation of about $600,000 per teacher. The proposed system, believing Blythe township better able to pay its teachers, would give that township only 20 per cent of the teachers' salary, while the state would pay 60 per cent of the salaries in Turbotville.

The proposed plan is based entirely upon the property value of the real estate in the school district, divided by the number of teachers in the district. In this way the state officials believe they can arrive at a more equitable plan of paying higher rates to districts which are actually poor, and a lower rate to districts which can better afford to pay their own expenses.

For years the department of public instruction has been asking in its reports from school districts, that the secretary furnish the total assessed valuation of the property, on which the school taxes are based, as well as the percentage the assessed value holds to the true value or actual value of the property. The department of officials, by dividing the percentage into the assessed valuation totals, has arrived at what it believes the true value of the property or the actual wealth of the district.

By dividing into the true value of the property, the number of teachers in the district, the department has obtained an index figure which it calls the "valuation per teacher." This valuation is made the basis of the proposed payments to the districts.

The portions of the teachers' salaries, which are to be paid to the districts under the proposed plan, will be on the following scale:

Valuation salary paid by the per teacher state to the district	Percentage of
$50,000 or less	60
$51,000 to $150,000	50
$151,000 to $200,000	40
$201,000 to $300,000	30
$301,000 or more	20

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ECHOES

By Charles E. Sebald.

Topic: "Factors For Making The World Better. How Can We Help?" Text: Matthew 5: 13-16.

"Ye are the salt of the earth; but if the salt hath lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men. Ye are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a lamp and put it under the bushel, but on the stand and it shineth unto all that are in the house. Even so let your light shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in Heaven."

Christ when he spoke these words in His sermon on the mount was confronted with the same conditions with which we are confronted today. The people of his day were lustful, idolatrous and hypocritical. Human nature hasn't changed one bit. Today we have idolatry of the worst kind. Our God is the god of the gold eagle. We ever worship him. To him we sacrifice personal and national honor, love, life and friends. Our penitentiaries are filled with men, and there are many who should be there, who have given all this to the golden god, money.

Our hypocrisy is found in the churches and I am sorry to say very often in the hearts of the ministers of the Gospel and people who preach the laws of Love and Service and then sit idly by and thank God that they are not as other men.

Then the lust and the acts of men fulfilling the animal desires that come over them. I will not say men, I apologize for the use of that term. I mean beasts. Male and female who will become drunk and do the things which we see going on about us each day.

In this brief survey of conditions I have, in a general manner, outlined the things which we see and the things that Christ had to contend with in His day. The remedy is the same. What is it?

Christ in his speech got to the root of the disease when he said, "Ye are the salt of the earth." "Ye," if we could only remember that phrase. We speak of the world being made better and see the big task before us and throw up our hands. Then some one suggests that we make the United States better. That, too, is a big task and we shake our heads negatively. Then they suggest the state of Pennsylvania. Still too big a job we say. Then they tell us to take the home community and we say, "Oh, that is not such a bad place but perhaps we can do some good." But Christ said that first you should cast the pole out of your own eye before you try to take the splinter out of the eye of some one else. Make yourself better and the world will be better. But when that proposition is put to us we say, "Look at Henry Jones. He is worse than I am. He is the fellow that needs it. Not me." Oh, you hypocrites, that make such statements. That is the attitude that makes Henry Jones worse.

So how can we help making this world better. By each one tending to his community and himself as well and seeing that it is made a better place. Then if each does that each community will be better and in time the world will be better.

On Sunday night there will be many conditions of Gettysburg brought up that perhaps many of our people are ignorant of. If they are they will be made to know of them and a possible remedy will be suggested. We invite the entire city for this is a city question and a vital issue. Gettysburg can be made better and it is the duty of the Churches to see that this is done. It is not the duty of any one denomination, but all united in the name of Jesus Christ, to make this a better place and take away the Mud that has been heaped upon it during the past few years. So come and take part in this great work. Sunday, March 18th, at 6 P. M.

Lorene's clear eyes turned upon her for assurance. "You do think he's nice, don't you? I want somebody to feel that way. My stepmother says—"

Mrs. Penfield drew her closer. "Poor dear child!" she said softly. "Yes, if I knew anything about human beings, you're two lucky young people to get each other."

"Oh, I—I love you," choked the girl. Her high tide of joy broke on the rock of cold opposition which she would presently encounter at home. Unable to control herself, she turned quickly and went out without another word.

"My gracious!" breathed Mrs. Penfield. "Do you suppose the time'll ever come when Lettie'll cry like that 'cause I've made her so wretched that she can't stand the shock of being happy? Lorene's a sweet girl, and I like that young Chase, too."

"Yes," said Prudence softly, "it's very beautiful."

CHAPTER VII

What Can You See in Him?

Lettie was in the midst of a financial enterprise. Mrs. Catterbox, a leader in penny prodigality, had offered the job of watching her two children till dinner time, at one cent per head. Lettie had not only accepted, but had used this as a lever with which to pry off further gain. Whatever other qualities might be debatable or in abeyance, Lettie's trustworthiness was generally conceded. Successfully, therefore, she had interviewed tired mothers, until she had assembled nine youngsters in the driveway, each representing a cash value of one cent. When Mrs. Penfield entered, they were about to be conducted to the back yard, there to be vigorously and conscientiously entertained for an hour.

"We're going to play animals," announced Lettie, vastly excited.

"Animals?"

"Uh-huh. Out of that library book you been reading us."

"Lettie," called Mrs. Penfield, as the child danced away, "remember not to play too hard. You're big and strong compared with—"

she quieted this misgiving. "Hub, trust me! It's just little animals we're going to play."

Mrs. Penfield went on into the house. Uncle Jerry was there before her; also Frank Bosley.

"I thought you wouldn't mind, Carline, if we walked into your living-room for a minute."

She nodded pleasantly. "You're perfectly welcome." The words were pitiable, but not so cordial as Mrs. Penfield herself could have wished. She could not entirely conquer a feeling of irritation upon finding in her house a man whom she instinctively distrusted. A foolish feeling, she thought to herself. She had not a shred of tangible evidence against Frank Bosley, but the repulsion was strong. Her delight in finding a relative here in California had been greatly tempered by the friendship between these two men, unaccountable, persistent.

"Don't hurry because I came," she said, waving the guest back to his seat. "I'm going on into the kitchen in a minute." She opened her shabby leather bag and took out a small box, wrapped in paper. "I'll just give you this, as long as you're home again."

She passed it over.

Frank Bosley took the box mechanically and turned it about as if bewildered. "What is it?" There was no doubting his surprise.

"I'm sure I don't know. Valuables, I suppose. Your wife brought it in for me to keep while she was gone."

The red of swift anger surged into his face. "Gussie brought it in! What in—! I'd see do that for?"

Mrs. Penfield smiled. "I don't know. For safety, was all she said. And of course a burglar would be rather low in his mind 'fore he'd try this place."

His anger mounted steadily, blazing now in his prominent nose. "D—!" She makes me sick, always getting the jumping jimmies! I'll see that she doesn't bother you any more, Mrs. Penfield."

"Oh, isn't that I count it a bother, Mr. Bosley? but, land, there ain't any great protection here."

"And, great Scott, you carry this!"—he turned the box over in his hands—"these rings—or whatever 'tis—round with you when you go anywhere?"

"No, I ain't never done that before, but going out of The Custard Cup all together—And even so, what if I lost it?"

"I should say!" His words cut the air with violence. "Believe me, I'll fix this—"

Jerry Winston, whose merry eyes had sharpened with alert interest, broke in with a careful drawl. "Ain't you a bit hard on nerves, Bosley? Likely your wife's had a dream or something."

This lightened version seemed to restore Frank Bosley's composure. "Likely," he agreed glibly. "Been reading the newspapers, I presume. Got her mind full of robberies, and thinks she's going to be the next in line."

Jerry Winston nodded. "Worst thing in the world for nerves," he said sadly. "Women need lighter food'n that."

Mrs. Penfield started for the kitchen. Frank Bosley's voice followed her. "I'll be ambling along, Winston. See you again in a day or two."

Mrs. Penfield, emptying the baked beans into the saucepan, shook his head. "Wouldn't that beat you?" she murmured.

She put the saucepan on the stove and went to the back door. Lettie's game was in full swing. There were now ten scraps of humanity, because Thad had been annexed to the party as a family courtesy and was traveling deadhead through its joys. Each one of the ten had been assigned the part of a creature of feathers or fur and was practicing the new character with vociferous spirit. Timmy Catterbox, as Gray Squirrel, was eating an imaginary nut with increasing grace, to the accompaniment of appropriate noises; his little sister, as Hen, was strutting and cackling in a way that would have been illuminating to untrained poultry. Rabbit was represented; also Cat and Dog and Mouse and several others—all small, as Lettie had promised; all active, as one might expect.

prohibition amendment." Governor Pinchot said in the opening part of his address to the meeting of the ministers and laymen in Grace Church Friday morning.

"I want to say," the Governor added, "that the entire Constitution is sacred and that a man is a criminal when he breaks the Eighteenth amendment or any other amendment.
Your end of the work is to create a healthy public sentiment in favor of law enforcement, for when the public opinion is formed we shall have satisfactory enforcement."

Pine Street Methodist Church,
Williamsport, the Rev. John E.
Daugherty, pastor, was selected as the site for next year's conference sessions. This will be the first time the conference has been at Pine Street Church since 1912, when Dr.
E. A. Pyles, now superintendent of the Williamsport district, was pastor. Bishop McDowell, who is in charge of the sessions here, presided at the sessions in Pine Street in 1912.

Welcome Older Boys

Boys here to attend the second conference of the Older Boys of the district were assigned to homes
Thursday evening and at 7 o'clock had supper together in Ridge Avenue Church. The Rev. L. E. Wilson, of Duncannon, presided at the meal.

Greetings were extended from the Harrisburg City Union of Older Boys
by George McCahan. The Rev. H.
Willis Hartsock, pastor of the church, also extended greetings. Responses were made by delegates from four districts composing the conference; namely, Carl Williams, Altoona; Haven Frank, Harrisburg; Ralph Hindemarch, Sunbury, and Theodore F. Bowers, Williamsport.

The president of Drew Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. F. Watson Hannan, spoke to the young men on "Training for Service." Organization of the conference and the election of officers followed this address.

Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of Central Church, of Chicago, addressed last evening's session on
"That Fifth Wheel in Modern Life."
Doctor Shannon extolled the ministry as the supreme vocation, saying that if it were to stop moving the other four wheels would run into the ditch.

"I am glad to hear the Governor of your State say he intends to make an honest-to-God effort to enforce the Eighteenth amendment," Doctor
Shannon said.

Women Celebrate

With Mrs. Robert Bagnell presiding, the anniversary of the Methodist Women's Foreign Missionary Society was celebrated Friday afternoon.
Addresses were made by Miss Florence Hooper and Mrs. W. F. Mc-Dowell. At 4 o'clock Prof. F. Watson Hannan, of Drew Theological Seminary, gave his second talk on "Homiletic Uses of the Bible," to the ministers attending the conference.

Possibly the session of greatest interest today is that scheduled by the Laymen's Association of the conference for this afternoon. Maj.

Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the State police, and District Attorney Philip H. Moyer are both on the program for addresses. Major Adams on "Law Enforcement," and District Attorney Moyer on "Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Reports will be submitted by the committee on law enforcement and an address on "Opportunities of the Methodist Laymen in Enforcing the Laws Under the Eighteenth Amendment" made by Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance.

AT WORK IN CAGE

Dickinson Has Practically Veteran
Team This Year.

Carlisle, Pa., March 17.—More than thirty candidates are at work indoors preparing for places on the Dickinson College baseball team. The field candidates reported for the first time Thursday to Coach MacAndrews, and the battery men have been limbering up for more than a week.

Virtually all of last year's varsity team is in College again this year, and a number of promising candidates are to be found in the Freshman class of the college and law school.
Nearly all of the new candidates have had wide experience on high school or preparatory school nines, and will keep some of the veterans moving to hold their old berths. Practice will

CRYSTAL RADIO
SET DETECTORS

Distances up to 1,000 Miles Not Considered Difficult Without Other Assistance.

Chicago, Mar 17.—Many records of long distance reception of music from radiophone broadcasting stations by receiving sets using a crystal detector, have been made during the past winter, according to reports compiled here today by an interested radio amateur. While radio experts say such reception is not considered very difficult, it is accomplished only at night and with the weather conditions ideal.

The "crystal" receiving set, it was explained, requires no batteries for its operation and very few instruments. The crystal detector itself is a simple device, using a small piece of galena crystal—lead ore—to change the radio signal picked up by the aerial or antenna into recognizable sounds. The crystal is fastened in a holder, and so arranged as to be in contact with a fine copper wire which is adjustable over any part of its surface.

Some amateurs have reported receiving broadcasting stations as far away as 1,000 miles, while others say that they have heard stations 300 miles or less from their listening posts.

Such long distance reception, radio experts have explained, is done by the crystal set, alone and without any outside assistance from a neighboring set that uses an audion tube as a detector.

"Due to the reports of long distance receiving with the crystal," one radio amateur said, "many anxious listeners have sought to learn how it is accomplished. While I cannot point to any one type of set that will do the work, I can say that only close adjustments of the variable instruments with perfect weather conditions and the proper aerial will bring in the far-away station. However, several receiver plans—hook-ups, in the language of the radio fan—have been offered as solving the problem, but even some amateurs in this city have been able to receive Schenectady, N. Y., without any special apparatus."
